BAMFIELD WEATHER by PETER JANITIS

So most of us have survived another winter. However for the first day of Spring the high and low temps were the same as for the 1st day of Winter, 9°c and 4°c.

At this same time last year I had already planted my potatoes. This year the patch is not even dug up. This year in March we had only 5.59" of rain as compared with last years' 12.76". The average rainfall for the month is 11.4", total for the year so far we have 33.25", last year was 43.22".

Temperatures ranged from a high of 18.5°c on the 18th, and a low of -3.0°c on the 1st and 2nd. Ten days of March were 0°c or below.

Mean max. 11.5°c

min. 2.8°c

Mean 7.1°c

Last years mean 6.7°c

Comet Flies through sky

Hello fellow star gazers 'Captain Comet' here, the other evening I was surfing the net with some of my cohorts when we came across some very interesting information. It seems that we (the planet earth) have had a visit from the wayward comet Hyakutake (Yah-koo-tah-kay). Named for the amateur Japanese astronomer Yuji Hyakutake, the comet was discovered on January 30th, 1996 using 25x150 binoculars it was an unexpected.

Hyakutake has a nucleus 3Km wide surrounded by a head of gases 70Km wide with a tail hundreds and thousands of miles long. Hyakutake speed is 80,000 M.P.H. (130,000 Km/h) on it's way to a top speed of 130,00 M.P.H. (200,000 Km/h) as it nears the sun. The comet will be moving northward at about 15 per day and will pass within approximately 10 million miles of earth as its closest passage.

After passing the earth, the comet will continue to journey towards the sun. On May first of this year the comet will come within 21 million miles of the sun, if it doesn't break apart the comet will then loop around the sun and return to the outer solar system at least 100 billion miles from the sun. Hyakutake may return in another 10,000 years if we're lucky.

A Comet is essentially a dirty iceberg floating through space in orbit around the sun. The word comet comes from the Greek word "Kometes" which means head of hair. Comets are not the same thing as meteors or shooting stars which streak rapidly across the night sky. Meteors are small rocky and/or icy particles that crash through the earth's atmosphere, where as comets are much further away and move slowly with respect to the background stars from night to night - they rise and set each day just like sun and moon. Hyakutake will zip right through several constellations in the course of a week.

The next long period comet that will make itself known to us is the Halley Bopp which will appear in early 1997. So if your dog starts meowing or your cat starts barking or your bird starts flying backwards you'll know it's just a passing phase and that gravity shall return to normal soon enough!

Editor's Note : Hyakutake has shown itself vividly to many Bamfield viewers!

The Adventures of Nell

by Claire Cariau

One day in a land with no name below Mt. Mysterious, a young girl named Nell decided to climb Mt. Mysterious. It was a windy day and climbing was hard. Finally she reached the top; to her surprise there stood a huge tower. Nell was not frightened. She was curious. Nell walked around the tower, and found an entrance. It was no bigger than a dwarf or gnome, but she went in anyhow, but then she stopped and thought to knock first. She stepped up to the little round green door with the shiny brass handle and knocked. Nobody answered, so Nell went in. All there was in front of her was a staircase, then she turned around and saw five pegs on the wall with little coats hanging on them. There was a coat with a pale green hood and another with a yellow hood and a dark green and a blue. Then Nell saw the prettiest one of all. It had a sky blue hood with gold draw strings. Nell ventured up the steps. At the top she heard voices of little people. Nell peeked around the corner and there were little men with colourful beards. Nell heard them talking about treasure that a dragon guarded. Just then a little puppy jumped out of a closet, and came bounding towards Nell. She jumped out of her hiding place and held the dog in her arms. The head dwarf stood up and demanded for Nell to release the puppy. Nell did as she was told, but the dog started to whimper and Nell said: "If you are going to make this dog whimper and cry, I will disobey you, but if you just let me calm the poor thing down I will return it to you." With that, Nell sat down and tried to calm the puppy down.

The next day Nell woke up to the sound of a dog whimpering. She looked up and saw the puppy's sad eyes looking into hers. The puppy (which Nell now called Buster) held a note in his mouth. Nell got up and read the note. It said: "All the dwarfs must awake at 7:30 to depart with the dog. We will be going to the witch's, and giving her the dog for her soup in return for the "dragon killing powder", so we can get the treasure that the dragon guards." Signed, Head Dwarf

COMMUNITY INTERACTION DAY

What's your problem? Maybe, -- your birth order! The March 5th C. I. Day at E.G.M.S. was attended by upwards of twenty Bamfield residents. An equal mix of teachers and parents (and some, like myself, single but interested in education) were treated to a captivating session presented by Thomas Beames, M.Ed., M.A. (C.P.), a practicing psychologist out of Ladysmith. With mature vitality and bountiful experience, Mr. Beames employed humour, personal accounts, and group participation to outline the Adlerian view of developmental psychology: a school of psychology founded by Alfred Adler in Vienna (contemporary to Freud and Jung).

A five hour time frame limited the depth of "Tom" Beames' efforts to provoke self-examination, and many participants would agree that adlerian principles (and principals?) warrant further study and possible application. Few would deny this brief encounter with Tom altered concepts of personality development for their selves, their brother(s)/sister(s) and, most importantly, their children. Mr. Beames also examined various behaviour management strategies "to encourage discouraged" individuals, and that, I think was the most important message for the day: we all are individuals, with individual histories, individual obstacles, and decidedly individual solutions for coping with a complex web of social identity.

Super I have dozen dragon

I have a dozen dragon bought,
them at the mall keep them in my closet. I estimate they're small their horns are red and silver,
their scales are green and gold,
All of them are beautiful, and all of them are beautiful.

They had a cream,
And pink ink,
Then blue ink in the kitchen
And yellow ink in the sink.
They saw the basin
And saw their silver wings,
While the fire
That was a thing.

One night a leprechaun was looking for gold but he didn't find any. So she asked her friends if they could help her, so all of her friends went in the night looking for gold,
The next morning she saw a very large rainbow. So she followed the rainbow for five hours till finally there was a big pot of gold.

She ran back home and got a big big wheel borrow and ran back.
She lifted it up and carried it all the way home.

To Bamfield Marine Station and the Community of Bamfield

Words cannot adequately express how deeply touched we were by the overwhelming support we received by the people of Bamfield, upon learning of our Brother's sudden death on February 25, 1996. Your faces revealed the pain and disbelief of the tragedy, as no doubt did ours.

The people of Bamfield reached out to us sharing the grief of our loss, as well as the love we had in common for John ... known to many of you as "Boomer". The many stories told by people of experiences they shared with "Boomer", have now transformed into invaluable memories. In listening to those whose lives he had touched, we noticed a variety of wonderful adjectives used to describe our brother. Some of you may recall John's own expertise in the field of terminology, expressing numerous colourful adjectives of his own! John was his own person. He was unique and himself! Accept him...or not.

We are moved and honored by intentions to set up a Scholarship Fund as a lasting tribute and legacy in John's memory. Knowing that John's love and respect for the people of his community was, is, and will be reciprocated, is of great comfort to us.

"THANK YOU" Each and every one of you!

Our heartfelt gratitude goes out to you for your kindness and the strength you instilled within us, easing the turmoil in our hearts.

A part of ourselves stayed behind with John on the breath taking island, his final resting place. Laid to rest beside his good friend Tim, and all that he loved surrounding him, may our Friend, Colleague and Brother, John Boom ("Boomer") lose himself in nature and find Peace.....

With Love and Appreciation,

"The Boom Family"

JOHN BOOM MISSED BY STATION

The staff and researchers of the Bamfield Marine Station wish to convey their condolences to John Boom's many friends and family. We are truly saddened by John's passing. It is difficult to imagine the Station or Bamfield without John.

John and the Station have been synonymous since the first year of operation at B.C.Packer's (1972) when he was a charter student. The following few years he helped prepare the Cable Station for occupancy, including constructing the divished and installing the connecting ramp and staircase. He continued to assist the Station while building ramps and floats for the community and otherwise earning a living locally.

At one point he designed and built a special float for testing kelp growth in Southern California. This project was funded by General Electric whose engineers visited Bamfield and the two companies they were contracting: Tripperfield Marine Appreciators (John's) and Canadian Kelp Resources. John had no difficulty convincing these Philadelphia engineers that, with the assistance of Ostrom's, he could fabricate the necessary hardware on schedule. Once constructed, John tipped the float on edge put on two sets of wheels and towed this contraption with Timmy Wenstob to California.

John returned to Simon Fraser around 1984 to obtain a Master of Science degree in molecular biology with Dr. Mike Smith. After he concluded his degree he became the major domino in Dr. Bruce Brandthort's molecular lab where he remained until starting on at the Station on April 15, 1993, one day after his birthday.

His title at the Station was Research Coordinator. John's role was one of trouble shooter - this involved fixing, building, designing scientific devices and contraptions beyond the imagination. The last major task he undertook was to design and construct a large aquarium suitable for filming a BBC program on marine life. The Station will not find a replacement for John as it is inconceivable any one person could have his array of skills.

John we hope that wherever you are the sea is alive with interesting critters and there are lots of great projects for you. We will miss you sorely but we will never forget you.

The Station is establishing a John Boom Memorial Scholarship. Anyone wishing to contribute may do so by cheque to The Bamfield Marine Station (please note on the cheque that this is for the Boom Scholarship). A tax donation receipt will be issued.

On social studies we are discovering Japan for the grade 6 class and the grade 7 class is studying Ancient Egypt. We all just finished a family education unit, it was lots of fun.

Earth Day is coming once again! To celebrate Earth Day this year, the BPDS, in conjunction with the School for Field Studies, is tentatively planning a clean-up in the Deer Group of Islands on Saturday, April 20th. Lots of flotsam and jetsam washes up onto these beaches every year, not to mention garbage left behind by inconsiderate campers and boaters, so no doubt there will be plenty of work to do. Watch for posters for specific details, or contact Edwin Hubert or Kitty Lloyd for more information. Bring friends and family out to this exciting event.

The Heritage Tea was a big success once again this year. People young and old came out March 10th to this annual event to look at old photographs, share stories, and enjoy each other's company. A big thanks to everyone who made this event possible, and to all the people who made the yummy treats.

Don't forget the upcoming Recycling Day on the morning of April 13th. Bring your cleaned and sorted recyclables down and join in the fun.

Our next meeting is April 23, at 7:30, at John and Kaye Monrufet's house. Come on out.

Everyone in Bamfield has been sent a house number and street name, its good for 911, but it is making Bamfield like a city because most city's have house number's and street name's. I like Bamfield with out all that stuff because it has trails. And I don't like it!

APRIL TO DO LIST

- * Prune roses if you have not done so. Prune them back by one-third, removing any diseased or broken branches, also branches that cross through the middle of the plant.
- * Deadhead Daffodils but leave seed pods on squills and grape hyacinths to seed themselves. Don't remove foliage until it has started to yellow. feed with fish fertilizer.
- * Divide up Primroses and Polyanthus after flowering.
- * Continue to sow seeds of hardy annuals in ground.
- * Shear winter flowering heathers after flowering.
- * April 1st to 15th plant early potatoes, green onion, bulb onion, kohlrabi, cabbage and leeks.
- * April 16th to 30th sow beets, carrots, swiss chard, broccoli, cauliflower, parsnips, kale and lettuce.
- * Sow zucchini, cucumbers and tomatoes indoors in a sunny window or a cold frame.
- * Plant out summer and fall flowering bulbs.
- * Don't forget to thin out plants so they are not too close together. If you don't they'll compete with one another for food, sun and water. Stress free plants will be tastier, larger and pest and disease free. Vegetable thinnings are very tender and can be added to a salad.
- * Much of what was on the March To Do List can still be done in April.

Two Incidents and Their Effect on a Small Town

By Richard Zook, Director, Zone 5.

On 10 December 1995, the fishing vessel Dalewood Provider was making its way from Sooke to Bamfield. It encountered heavy seas and high winds. For an unknown reason, she began taking on water. The three crew put on their survival gear and deployed the life raft. Somewhere between Pachina Light Station and Cape Beale Light Station, the Dalewood Provider capsized.

The capsized vessel drifted past Cape Beale where the Lightkeeper spotted her and called the Coast Guard. Bamfield Coast Guard and two U.S. Coast Guard helicopters responded. Shortly after, the Coast Guard Auxiliary and a Buffalo aircraft from Comox responded as well.

Somewhere off Dead Man's Cove, a rogue wave tipped the life raft over, throwing the crew into the sea. One person made it to shore, the other two still in the water. A second person actually made it to the beach where he was hit by floating logs and other debris and killed. The third person could not be found.

The one survivor was picked up and taken to Bamfield. The known body had to be left on the beach as he was tangled in the logs and the weather was so bad, that no one could get to him anyway. We couldn't even make it around Cape Beale.

The search for the missing person resumed at first light on 11 December. The body was located around 1000 that day. The body on the beach was picked up at about the same time. Bamfield had lost two fine people.

The second incident happened on the night of 25 February 1996 just inside Bamfield Harbour. A small 14 foot aluminum boat left the Bamfield Marine Station float at approximately 2000 headed for Copper Island. For reasons unknown, the lone person aboard fell out of the boat. I was the first person to see him before he left on a trip he had made many times. He was wearing rain gear and a life jacket when I watched him getting ready to leave. For safety reasons, he always let someone know when he was leaving and when he expected to be back. For some reason, he did not do so this time.

On Monday 26 February, I noticed his truck was still parked where he had left it and went to check to see if he was back. The boat was still gone and the person he had gone to see had been in Bamfield, but had left to catch a plane to Tofino. I checked with her sister to see if John was still at Copper Island. The sister said that he had never come out. He had been invited for dinner but did not show.

I told the office about the situation and started a harbour check for the boat. After the harbour check showed no results, I called the Coast Guard and the search started at 1130 with Coast Guard, Coast Guard Auxiliary and Bamfield Marine Station boats engaged. A bit later three aircraft assisted as well as many private boats. At approximately 1700, the boat was found off Long Beach, 25 miles from Bamfield. At 2200, we found John's body on a beach inside Bamfield Harbour.

The night he left, the seas were calm with a clear sky and no wind. There were a lot of floating logs and branches, etc., but otherwise the conditions were ideal.

We still do not know what happened. John knew the area well and he was very experienced on the water. This shows that the west coast shows no mercy at any time, good or bad. Never, ever take chances, always let someone know your plans and when you expect to be back. This can be the difference between life and death.

I knew all three people that died as we all lived in the same small community of Bamfield. John was a close friend and co-worker from the Bamfield Marine Station. I'll really miss him, but will never forget him. □

22 Minutes of News from the Parents' Advisory Council

Spring is sproinging all over, not unlike the members of the P.A.C., who only stop sproinging long enough to meet once a month and debate fiercely over the education of our children. Once the bitter arguments and insults are over, we all enjoy the traditional champagne and donuts that close each meeting.

The March 5th Community Interaction Day starring Tom Beames was very successful. Some who attended this informative workshop planning to stay only for the morning, decided to stay for the afternoon session also. Tom himself stayed, but that's the kind of guy he is.

The school breakfast program is going extremely well. Students are helping prepare, clean up and serve healthy snacks to get those young neurons firing first thing in the morning. Stuart and Cate would most likely want some credit for this, but of course it is another great P.A.C. achievement. Speaking of healthy food, the next hot dog day will be April 4.

Thanks to the P.A.C., the fund raising for the Strathcona field trip is going remarkably well. The mighty P.A.C. will next raise several thousand dollars for the trip by sponsoring an adult dance at the Hall on Friday, April 12th at 9 p.m.. There will probably be raffles, door prizes, open bar, balloons, pony rides and more canned muzak than anyone thought possible.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 8th, 3:15 at the school. Please remember that everyone is invited to attend meetings. Despite the great awe and mystery inspired by the mere mention of "P.A.C.", anyone who has enough money is welcome to join.

P.A.C. Profiles

This month: Stuart Hall

At 6' 4", blonde-haired, blue-eyed Stuart Hall is a real "beauty" of a teacher! When asked if having a hunk for a teacher was a little distracting, his female students quipped, "a hunk of what?"

Hailing originally from Cleveland, Ohio, the young Mr. Hall got his first real "education" playing bars and bowling alleys with his R&B band, "Beef Stu". When all his fellow band members left the group to become investment bankers, Stuart decided to devote his life to shake bolt cutting.

That brought him to Bamfield, and the rest is history. And isn't "his story" the stuff films are made of? The N.F.B. is currently negotiating with Stuart, who has just completed a screen play of his autobiography.

Next month: What's a "Bucky"?

NBA Shootaround

Penny From Heaven

Sonics on top in the west

When the Sonics started the season with a 9-6 record it looked like yet another early exit in May. Since then the Sonics have only lost 8 games. While second to Da Bulls in the NBA standings, They are a good 5 games up on the Jazz in the western conference. While all the attention goes to Da Bulls, most Sonics don't mind not getting all the media hype, "That's great. Don't talk about us. Keep talking about the Chicago Bulls, and we'll keep flowing the way we're flowing." Says Sonics guard Gary Payton. With the playoffs nearing, the last two postseasons have to be on the Sonics mind. The Sonics are most likely to face either The Sacramento Kings or the Denver Nuggets in the first round of the playoffs. With the best record in the league (63-19) Denver crushed the Sonics hopes of winning there 2nd NBA title in the 93-94 playoffs. That also has to be on the Sonics mind. "We just try to forget about it." Said Coach George Karl How can you forget something like that? Lot's of Questions. Not very many answers.

CFL Draft picks:

1. Edmonton
2. Toronto
3. Saskatchewan
4. Winnipeg
5. Hamilton
6. B.C.
7. Ed. monton
8. Cal. gary
9. Montreal

Who will the Magic blame if they don't win the NBA title this season? Anfernee Hardaway. Why? Because at the point guard position he was automatically given the job, leader of the team. At 6'7" The 1 spot doesn't fit well with Penny and would be superman at the 3 spot Guarding the Pippens and Hills of the league. With the playoffs nearing will Penny live up to the expectations? Let the games begin.

"The Mailman" considers WWF future

Utah Jazz power forward Karl Malone is a huge professional wrestling fan. Always has been. Always will be. "Randy Savage, Lex Luger, British Bulldog; I like em all," says Malone. My wife Kay and I know that it's not all real, but we just love to watch them. And when they come to Salt Lake City we go see them. Former pro football player Lawrence Taylor climbed in to the ring last spring and took Bam Bam Bigelow to school (ya don't know you better ask somebody) in Wrestlemania X. "Ever thought of pulling an LT and stepping between the ropes?" Yeah it's something I'd like to do." Are you listening Hulk Hogan?
