PTA TIE UP THEIR BOATS

Members of the Pacific Trollers Assoc. tied up their boats the night of June 14 after meetings all along the west coast of Vancouver Island.

In Bamfield, where more than 80 members of the PTA met, Bill Dunan, president of the Assoc., said that a unanimous decision was reached to reject the price offered by the Fisheries Assoc. and to stay tied up until there was a better offer.

Last year's price was .75 a lb. This year the offer was .60. Meetings held in Ucluelet, Tofino and Kyoquot had similar results.

Although the PTA had tied up their boats, they weren't idle. In Bamfield, trollersmen from all over B.C. volunteered their services and painted the church and community hall. Brushes and tins of paint appeared. Ladders went up to reach the high spots. And in only a matter of a few hours, the buildings were a spanking-clean white with blue trim.

BARKLEY SOUND MAY OPEN

Don McCulloch, Federal Fisheries Officer in charge of the Barkley Sound area, said June 22 that the Dept. of Fisheries is looking into the toxicity levels of clams and oysters with the view to opening Barkley Sound to the general public.

Non-commercial harvesting of clams and oysters has been banned in the area since November 1972 because of the presence of red tide which is associated with paralytic shellfish poisoning.

Over the past year, two commercial operations have been taking clams and oysters from the area. These operations have been working under special licences which require Fisheries inspection before marketing. The inspection has indicated that the area could be safe for the general public.

Because of this, the Dept. of Fisheries is now conducting an intensive sampling program in Barkley Sound.

(Barkley Sound Cont.p.9)

In our June issue, Peter Janitis asked the following question:

WHY DO PEOPLE WHO JUST PASS YOU WHEN YOU WALK BY THEM, WAVE TO YOU WHEN THEY ARE IN A BOAT?

Here are some of the responses:

It's an old tradition, whether you recognize the boat or not, you always wave.

When you're out in a boat, there's the ever-present chance of engine failure or an accident and you may have to ask for assistance, so people can't afford to grab you.

I remember when we got our Volkswagen in the 50's, all the VW owners waved or honked their horns when they saw each other. I think it was a feeling of comradeship. Perhaps it's the same with boat owners.

In a boat you can be friendly when you pass because you don't have to stop and talk.

Invariably when I'm out in a boat and meet someone who waves, they've got a guest from out of town. I think it's egotism. They're just showing off that they know everybody here. They don't know me from a hole in the ground when they walk by, but in a boat it's different.

In the farming districts on the prairies, people never used to pass without waving and honking.

They wave on motorcycles, in trucks and they even wave on logging roads. All sorts of minority groups wave. Under certain circumstances, people feel they are special--they don't feel quite so insignificant.

Everybody walks, but not everyone has a boat. You're sort of unique.

Maybe it's fear when you're up close to someone, but on the water you have a sense of freedom.

When I was a kid in Ontario, we always waved at the engineer driving the train and especially at the man in the caboose. Maybe Canadians are just great wavers.

Do you have a question you would like to ask in VIEWPOINT? Or maybe you have an opinion about something. If so, phone or write the editor.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Bonnie and Ron Brandner have a new 7 lb. 5 oz. baby girl. Ron reports that she was born June 24 at 12:55 AM "right on the button."

He got Bonnie to the hospital in Port with 55 minutes to spare. Pretty good for a first-time father.

The Brandners will be leaving Banfield after teaching here for two years. Ron will be teaching in Port at Maquinna Elementary School in September. Bonnie started her new job at 12:55 AM on the 24th.

Banfield will miss two very popular teachers.

HOLIDAY AHEAD

Those of us who work on The Banfielder are going to take a holiday. So we won't be printing an August issue.

Please note, however, the August events listed on the side of the July calendar. No doubt there will be some events that aren't on the list. So keep an eye on posters at Gwyer's, Ostrom's and the Coffee Shop.

We'll be back again with a September issue.

Have a happy summer!

Bonnie Brandner, teacher of the primary grades at Eric Godson School in Benfield, gave her young students a project recently. She had planned to take them to the beach one day to study shells and the creatures who live in them, but because of bad weather, the trip had to be cancelled. Instead, she asked them to draw a picture of the kind of shell they would like to live in and to write a sentence or two about their pictures. Below are some of the results.

Our black and white reproduction of the pictures does not do them justice. But, if you can imagine every color in the crayon box, then you are almost there. (We had to reduce the size, too.)

Nancy: My shell is warm inside because I have a window that lets the sunshine in.

Richard: My shell has 2 bedrooms, a kitchen and a livingroom.

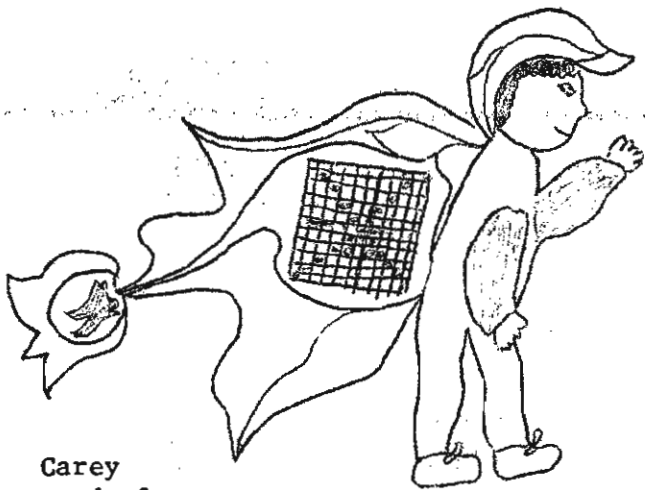

Darren: The water pushes me away in the sea. I don't like it so I stick part of myself out so I can stick onto a rock.

Pat: The snake is trying to eat me up. I am going to stand up and put my fires on so he will burn up. Another snake sees him and goes to tell the other animals to stay away from me.

Colleen: I squeeze in my shell when it's raining. When it is sunny, I come out.

Darryl: Nobody eats me because if they touch me they will get cut. Seagulls eat me. I dig under the sand.

Several of the women in the community provided the men with lunch to show their appreciation.

One of the fishermen, remarking on the possibility of a long tie-up said, "If the Fisheries Association doesn't give us our price, we'll be painting every damn building in Bamfield."

But the next day, at noon, on Tuesday, June 17, the 450 members of the PTA returned to the fishing grounds after Bill Dunan recommended that they go fishing and support the small independent fish companies.

During a meeting with the Fisheries Association in Vancouver on June 16, the small independent fish companies indicated to the PTA that they would pay .73 a lb. for #1 quality fish. Larger centres such as Vancouver and Victoria would pay as high as .80 a lb.

The major companies, B.C. Packers, Nelson Bros., McCallums, and Canadian Fish Co. indicated that they would stand pat on the .60 price.

Concern has been expressed by fishermen that those who are indebted to the major companies could be in trouble if they sell their fish to the independents.

Many boats have been financed by the major companies on a demand loan basis and these loans can be called in at any time.

Leaders of the PTA have told their members that although fishermen financed by a company must give that company the first offer on each load of fish, no fisherman can be forced to take the company price.

Any pressure on the company's part would be seen as price fixing, they said.

Samples will be sent to Nanaimo where toxicity levels will be determined. Mr. McCulloch said that they hope to have the results in three weeks.

If the ban is lifted, a few areas will remain closed. Mr. McCulloch said that Hand Island in the Broken Group still has a high level of toxicity in the butter clams, while Ucluelet Inlet and Bamfield Inlet will stay closed because of the presence of sewage.

PRESS RELEASE FROM MP HUGH
ANDERSON, COMOX-ALBERNI

House of Commons, Standing Committee on Fisheries & Forestry.
May 30-Mr. Anderson: "On the Class C licences in B. C. after talking with many fishermen, I would suggest that C class licences be issued only on proof that at least 25% of their income is derived from the fishing industry. I think it has become a practice in B.C. for fishermen to take out C class licences, use C class licences as a form of income tax deduction on their boats and not actually be qualified fishermen. Some method such as a 25% proof of income derived from the fishing industry should be used to weed out pleasure fishermen who are calling themselves commercial fishermen and deriving the benefits of income tax deduction."

COMPENSATION PLAN FOR FISHERMEN

Commercial fishermen may be brought under the Workers' Compensation Act soon.

Labour Minister William King introduced amendments to existing compensation laws June 3 giving full recognition to all members of B. C.'s fishing fleet.

Under the new legislation contained in Bill 105, a commercial fisherman is defined as "the master and crew of a fish-packing vessel and any other person who contributes in any manner to the catching or landing of fish for sale or commercial use."

If the amendments are passed, it is expected that fish boats will have to be checked by compensation board inspectors to make sure they meet safety standards.

The new legislation moved through first reading June 4 .

	HAVE A	HAPPY SUMMER !!

by Sheila Ponich

With summer holidays almost here and the water temperatures warming up slightly, it is time again to begin the Red Cross Swimming program.

First, a welcome to Gwen Pace who will be instructing the classes this year. We are very fortunate to have Gwen living here in Bamfield, as qualified Red Cross instructors are in short supply this season.

Some recent statistics about boating accidents and drownings:

1. "Our constant emphasis on water safety seems to be paying off," Ms. Engemoen, water safety director, says. Despite the increasing population in B. C., the number of drownings decreased last year for the second year in a row. They dropped to 150 in 1974, from 181 in 1973, and 201 in 1972.
2. Boating accidents continued as the major cause of drownings last year. They accounted for 29% of drownings, while swimming incidents were involved in only 9%, a drop of 4% over last year.
3. Teenagers and young adults accounted for nearly half of all drownings. The largest number of drownings occurred in the 13 to 21 age group, which last year accounted for 25% of all drownings in B. C. Next highest was the 22 to 33 age group with 23%.

We are hoping, with parents' co-operation, to institute a few changes in the program this year in order to create a better learning atmosphere for the students. Only students who are involved in swimming should be on the beach area during each lesson. If parents with more than one child involved find they are not able to accompany each child home after the lesson, arrangements can be made to have another person take the children home.

The instructor will issue times of the next day's lesson at the end of each day so that students will always know when to arrive.

Parents and students are requested to leave their pets at home during class time. For those people who must rely upon boat transportation, we ask that they use the hall float only.

Classes will be held from July 9 - August 3. Students are asked to come to the first lesson prepared to swim. Registration and screening will also be done at this time.

BE PAID TO LEARN

Consideration is being given to offering a Basic Training Skill Development course (BTSD) in Bamfield.

The course will be roughly equivalent to a Grade 8 - 10 level.

To enrol, a person must be 19 years of age or older, or 18 years of age and out of school at least one year.

The course would be for 22 weeks, 6 hours daily, starting October 20.

The objective is to prepare people and give them the necessary background to take vocational training, or give them direct entry into work.

This training is provided without charge to the individual, and normally, those taking the course would qualify for a training allowance based on attendance.

An enrolment of at least 12 people will be expected if the course is to take place.

If you are interested, please call Elinor Rhynas, 728-3215.

PATIENCE -- A VIRTUE?

In the first issue of The Bamfielder, we carried an article about Val Tveit asking Bamfield residents for their support in helping to obtain hydro electric power for Grappler Inlet residents.

That was way back in January.

In March, as a result of letters from Bamfield, MLA Robert Skelly paid a visit to our area. He said then that he would ask Hydro to outline specifications and the breakdown for their $45,000 installation estimate.

Recently, Mr. Skelly sent a photocopy of a letter addressed to him to all those who had originally written supporting Grappler Inlet residents. This letter was from W. A. Harrison, District Manager in Port Alberni for B. C. Hydro and Power Authority. It was dated April 29, 1975 and the last paragraph reads:

We will review and update our estimate and meet as soon as possible with the Grappler Inlet residents to explore the possibilities.

We're still waiting.

GREEN THUMBS

by Cathie Greengrass

Gardens reflect a gardener's habits. Try these habits to improve your garden.

Careful weeding - scraping with a hoe or trowel rather than chopping helps prevent injury to shallow rooting plants including many vegetables.

Keeping the soil moist, not only the surface but a few inches down, prevents water stress. Plants such as snap beans and sunflowers will indicate water stress by the darkening of their leaves. Add water and normal color returns rapidly to the leaves.

Keep an eye out for irregularities, including a radical difference in the size of similar plants. It is said that gardeners who talk to their plants also keep an eye on their good health. Your attentiveness will likely spot potential problems before they have a hold.

When to water - morning or evening? It doesn't matter just so long as you do water. Watering in the evening may tend to cool plants.

Weeds and wild helpers. Dandelion greens are deliciously edible when young, but bitter as the flowers come. Nasturtiums likewise. Nettles, the type that sting and itch, will help prevent cabbage worms, as marigolds will prevent carrot fly, if planted among the carrots.

July is the time of harvest for summer gardens - and the time to plant for fall. Fall plants include kale, beets, turnips, leaf lettuce, chinese cabbage, swiss chard, endive and snap beans. No special care is required save preparing the soil well.

Greenhouse ideas needed. Your successes may assist other gardeners. Call Cathie 3234.

COOK'S

"Cookie". Originally a cookie was a small cake. Now cookies are as individual as their makers.

Sharon Logan says her cookies are "terrific with coffee, tea, milk or children".

Sharon's Ginger snaps

1. Mix 1 c. white sugar and $\frac{3}{4}$ c. shortening.
2. Then add 1 egg, $\frac{1}{4}$ c. molasses, 2 c. flour, $\frac{1}{4}$ t. salt, 2 t. baking soda, 1 t. ginger, $1\frac{1}{2}$ t. cinnamon, $\frac{1}{2}$ t. cloves.
3. Form into balls and roll in white sugar. Don't flatten them, they'll spread.
4. Bake at 375° for 15 min. but watch them.

"These are tricky cookies", says Sharon. "They come out looking doughy with cracks across, and then toughen up. Time is critical—they can overcook in a minute."

"Make a double recipe", suggests Sharon, "in a very large bowl—preferably a bucket or laundry tub. You'll find there are few if any leftovers."

FISHBOAT SUBSIDY

June 5 - Fisheries Minister Romeo Leblanc announced an interim fishing vessel subsidy program which will pay up to 35% of the cost of new vessels over 35 feet long.

The program will apply only to full-time fishermen, not involved in fishing for species protected by the limitation on fleets.

Subsidies for replacement vessels will be available if a ship being replaced is at least 3 years old. The replaced vessels must be licensed for both the protected and non-protected species.

Leblanc said that the interim program is for the current year, and "a long-term fleet development plan will be established as part of the overall program for the rehabilitation of the Canadian groundfish industry."
